Greencore celebrates its Line Coordinator Framework graduates

Local convenience food manufacturer, Greencore, is celebrating 23 colleagues at its salads site in Spalding on completing its bespoke professional development programme 'Line Coordinator Framework'.

Commenting on the Line Coordinator Framework and the graduates, Simon Titchner, General Manager at Greencore said:

"I am incredibly proud of the colleagues that have completed our Line Coordinator Framework programme. Everyone has had to work extremely hard and in challenging circumstances due to the Covid pandemic, but we hope that this programme will enable our people to become even better leaders in our business, with the opportunity to further progress their careers with us."

Kevin Parker, HR Business Partner at Greencore Spalding said:

"We want to make Greencore an even better place to work, and to create a great experience for all our colleagues. We feel strongly about supporting our people in growing as professionals – this is part of our 'Grow with Greencore' ethos.

"I get great satisfaction in seeing people grow in their careers, so for me it was a such a pleasure to be able to celebrate this achievement together with our colleagues."

The professional development programme is designed to give Greencore colleagues the opportunity to learn new skills in order to develop their careers with the company. Line Coordinator Framework differentiates itself from other professional development programs in that it is grounded in the work that our colleagues do each day and has a creative, more practical hands-on approach to learning.

Greencore is currently recruiting for new colleagues, visit Greencore.com/careers for more information.
